

© 2025 CIRCLEX CODEX. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

THE QUANTUM TEMPL™

INFLUENCE, PROTECT & PROGRAM YOUR REALITY

---

GATE I: INFLUENCE &
CREATION

---

ESTABLISHES THE LAWS OF CAUSE AND EFFECT; SHOWS HOW CONSCIOUSNESS PROGRAMS
REALITY.

CIRCLEX CODEX EDITION NOTES

---

The Quantum Templ™ — Gate I: Influence & Creation
Influence, Protect & Program Your Reality
Part of The Quantum Templ™ System

© 2025 CircleX Codex. All rights reserved.
A division of The Quantum Templ™.

No part of this book may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means—electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise—without prior written permission from the publisher, except for brief quotations used in reviews or scholarly discussion.

Published by: The Quantum Templ™
Imprint: CircleX Codex™
Office: 344 City Road, Southbank, VIC 3006, Australia
Contact: thequantumtempl@gmail.com
Website: thequantumtempl.au/

Disclaimer

This publication is intended for educational and personal development purposes.

It is not a substitute for professional medical, psychological, or legal advice. Readers are encouraged to adapt all practices responsibly, with awareness of personal health, local laws, and ethical standards.

The author and publisher disclaim liability for any direct or indirect consequences arising from the application or interpretation of the material contained herein.

The Quantum Templ™ System, CircleX Codex™, and all related names and marks are trademarks of their respective holders.

Printed and distributed worldwide in digital format.

Cover design © CircleX Codex™.

Edited and typeset by CircleX Codex™, a division of The Quantum Templ™.

CONTENTS

|                                           |    |
|-------------------------------------------|----|
| Introduction: The Architecture of Reality | 04 |
| The Origin of the System                  | 05 |
| Why It Matters Now                        | 07 |
| On Guidance and Alignment                 | 08 |
| What Brought Me to This Work              | 10 |
| Reason                                    | 12 |
| Introduction – How to Use This system     | 12 |

---

|                                            |    |
|--------------------------------------------|----|
| Invitation                                 | 04 |
| Mind Map                                   | 05 |
| The Signal Audit                           | 07 |
| Chapter 1: Programming RealityIntent   | 08 |
| Chapter 2: Programming RealityImagery  | 10 |
| Chapter 3: Programming RealityTiming:  | 12 |
| Chapter 4: Programming RealityAncestry | 12 |

---

|                                                      |    |
|------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Appendix: Troubleshooting                            | 04 |
| Advanced Protocol: When to Call a Professional.      | 05 |
| Take Action                                          | 07 |
| Case Study: From Visa Uncertainty to Six-Figure Work | 08 |
| Advanced Note: Surya Vandana (Beyond Gate I)         | 10 |
| The Feedback Loop                                    | 12 |
| System Status: Gate I Active                         | 12 |

---

|                                       |    |
|---------------------------------------|----|
| The Quantum Templ™ — The Temple Wheel | 04 |
| Join the Private Circle (Facebook)    | 05 |

INTRODUCTION: THE ARCHITECTURE OF REALITY

Welcome to Gate I -

You are here because you suspect that reality isn't random. You've felt that despite your best efforts—the hard work, the planning, the positive thinking—you are still receiving outcomes that don't match your desires. The sales page promised you a shift from confusion to creation. This book is the manual for that shift.

Before we go deeper, let's slow down for a moment. Here's the part most people miss when they try to change their life.

As an AI Engineer, I look at reality through the lens of input and output. If the output (your life) is buggy, chaotic, or looping, we don't blame the screen.

Influence, Protect & Program Reality

We look at the code. In the human experience, that "code" is made of four specific mechanics:

- 1.Intent (The Data)
- 2.Imagery (The Interface)
- 3.Timing (The Synchronization)
- 4.Ancestry (The Network)

You are about to learn how to debug your own broadcast. This is not just ancient tradition; it is a technical manual for the unseen. We will strip away the vague "wishful thinking" and replace it with clear, repeatable protocols.

THE ORIGIN OF THE SYSTEM

---

FOR TENS OF THOUSANDS OF YEARS,
HUMANITY HAS STUDIED CAUSE AND
CONSEQUENCE — THROUGH RITUAL,
SCIENCE, AND SYMBOL.

Every era built its own language for the same truth: that reality is programmable when its architecture is understood. The Quantum Templ System continues that lineage. It is a modern articulation of ancient, field-tested structures of influence, protection, and creation — translated into a framework anyone can learn and apply responsibly.

I am one of the system's developers — a technologist trained in data, logic, and language models — refining this structure for the modern world. I didn't create this System — I recognized it.

A simple way to understand this is that two worlds were speaking the same language long before I learned to translate it.

The same principles that govern machine learning, human performance, business strategy, and spiritual transformation follow a shared architecture. I call it The Quantum Templ™. My role is to build what works, and deliver what transforms. I've trained:

- systems to learn
- organizations to move
- minds to understand
- bodies to adapt

The boxing ring taught me what no classroom did: If your inner frequency collapses, the outer world follows. What emerged from these worlds is a map: The Quantum Templ™ — the architecture of transformation that life already responds to.

WHY IT MATTERS NOW

---

The Quantum Templ System was created to help people move from Point A to Point B — from confusion, burnout, and invisible resistance to clarity, alignment, and forward motion.

We live in a time where systems evolve faster than people can adapt.

Artificial intelligence, automation, and digital acceleration are rewriting the meaning of work, purpose, and stability.

Entire industries shift in months. Families rebuild around new routines.

The speed that promised freedom now breeds fatigue, uncertainty, and quiet panic beneath productivity.

You work harder, yet progress feels stalled.

You stay connected, yet feel increasingly disconnected.

You sense there's a structure beneath events — but can't read its code.

The Quantum Templ System exists to make that structure visible.

Think of this as switching from superstition to source code.

It translates the unseen patterns of cause and effect into clear, teachable method.

It shows that consciousness, like any system, can be debugged, tuned, and aligned.

This isn't a new religion or belief.

It's an old science — reorganised for a world overwhelmed by information and losing coherence.

A system you can test, measure, and refine.

No dogma. No fear. Only clarity, practice, and results that hold up over time.

When technology outpaces understanding, Quantum Templ System restores balance.

FIELD NOTE

---

A MODERN CAREER PIVOT

A few years ago, I arrived in Australia as an international student with a temporary visa and no certainty about work or stability. The job market tightened, and AI reshaped hiring.

I treated that as a live experiment in the mechanics you'll learn in Gate I — intent, imagery, timing, and ancestry. I calibrated my signal, worked the petitions, followed the timing, and acted actively on the opportunities that opened.

The result wasn't instant, but it was precise: a six-figure consulting role, followed by a better AI position. I'll break this down in detail later in the Case Study section. For now, hold this in mind: the system you're about to learn has already been road-tested in real-world pressure — not just theory.

Now let's zoom out again, because this next mechanic explains why the system responds the way it does.

ON GUIDANCE AND ALIGNMENT

---

IN THE QUANTUM TEMPL SYSTEM TRADITION, INSIGHT RARELY ARRIVES AS THUNDER OR VISION.

It comes as subtle communication — quiet signals, inner instruction, precisely timed impressions. Sometimes they direct action; sometimes stillness. When understood and followed with clarity, results align with precision.

This is not magic — it is mechanics. Life moves through probabilities, not certainties. Every action, every thought, every signal we project shifts the field of potential outcomes. These practices don't bend nature's laws — they amplify the probability of success by aligning what you think, feel, and project (your internal intent) with the informational field that shapes real-world outcomes. When alignment is strong, movement accelerates. What might take years through ordinary effort can unfold in months through synchronized intention — not through luck, but through frequency match between will and reality. When your internal signal matches the pattern of your desire, the universe moves to meet you halfway.

In practice, this means the universe is responding to coherence, not effort.

Traditionally, this understanding was passed through lineage — teacher to student, parent to child. The Quantum Templ System preserves that continuity while adapting it to a modern, system-based format: a framework anyone can learn, test, and verify. Our philosophy is simple: If it works, keep it. If it doesn't, leave it. No dogma. No fear. No superstition. Only what's real, what's useful, and what helps human beings grow in clarity.

WHAT BROUGHT ME TO THIS WORK

---

PARALLEL TO THE WORLD OF ALGORITHMS AND MODELS, I WALKED ANOTHER PATH — ONE OF RITUAL, DEVOTION, AND QUIET POWER.

I studied with Hindu saints, elders, and folk-lineage practitioners. I sat in ashrams, visited remote temples, learned the precise mechanics of Mantra, Yagya, Altar-Work, Petition. I made mistakes, lost stability, tested what works and what doesn't.

Over time, two worlds became inseparable to me: the world of energy, intention, and spirit, and the world of systems, logic, and structure.

Here's where most teachings stop, but this is where the real system begins.

I saw that both speak the same language — one is soft code, the other hard code. One is the internal algorithm of your spirit — the other is how that algorithm interacts with reality. Rituals are protocols. Intent is data. Timing is synchronization. The question became: How do we reverse-engineer the unseen? How do we teach unseen laws with precision, safety, and honesty?

Too many teachings lean purely mystical — vague symbols, unverified results, promises without architecture. Our work stands in the overlap: where mysticism meets method, where devotion meets design. What follows is not fireworks, but something rarer — a system of clarity. You'll learn why a ritual works, not just how. You'll test your field, measure results, and refine your craft. You'll balance power with ethics, confidence with humility, sovereignty with connection.

This first pillar, The Gate of Reality, lays your foundation: intent, imagery, timing, and spirit. It reveals how consciousness programs reality — and how you can step into that code.

REASON

---

THIS SECTION IS REALLY JUST THE REASON WHY THIS FIRST PILLAR — THE GATE OF REALITY — EXISTS.

One of the foundations of this entire system is the principle of influencing the external world with the power of the mind. There are even reports that parts of the Indian military quietly explored how intent and visualisation could shape reality. There isn't much free information out there about it, but the techniques they used were rooted in the works of the Kabaalis and other ancient traditions.

When you see the bigger picture, it's about taking the natural elements of the world and using them to communicate with the universe — to express a need or a desire.

I want to bring you closer to those origins. The ancient traditions are initiatory systems that require real devotion. They are deep, beautiful, and have spanned human history for more than thousands of years. Like ATR (African Traditional Religions), the practice of Yantra, Tantra and Yagya belong to the old mystery traditions — from a time when teachings were passed down only by word of mouth. The students learned from their teachers in the Himalayas, carried it to the Kumbh Mela, and passed it on through generations. These sampradays kept the practices alive, creating a unique branch of mysticism and folk magic — one unlike anything else in the world. I will share some of these secrets with you here, so that you can benefit from them.

INTRODUCTION – HOW TO USE THIS SYSTEM

---

THIS IS THE FIRST PILLAR. I'M NOT HERE TO SELL MYSTERY FOR MYSTERY'S SAKE — I'M HERE TO TEACH THINGS THAT WORK.

If you like plain talk, step-by-step ideas, and rituals grounded in real practice, you'll be comfortable here.

What This System Is For

Learning a simple, repeatable formula for working with intent, imagery, timing, and spirit.

Building petitions and practical rituals for protection, justice, opportunity, or clearing obstacles.

Knowing when to work, how to prepare, and how to close a ritual responsibly.

Understanding where to get help — and how to spot people who might exploit your need.

Before you begin, here's the simplest way to hold the entire gate in your mind.

How to Use It

Read it through once. Then keep the ritual sections handy when you're ready to practice. Take notes. Start small. Ritual skill grows with practice and patience. Use the checklists and practical steps — they're designed to make your results repeatable and reliable.

Ground Rules

Respect tradition. Respect your helpers — living and dead. Respect other people. Never use these teachings to harm, coerce, or violate consent. If you're ever in doubt, choose restraint, focus on protection or self-work. This is a living document. Be honest with yourself, be humble, and let the work teach you.

INVITATION

---

IF YOU'RE READING THIS, IT'S PROBABLY BECAUSE YOU FEEL — DEEP DOWN — THERE'S MORE TO THIS WORLD THAN WHAT EVERYONE SEES.

Maybe you've hit real blocks or felt resistance, even when you're doing the right things. This pillar isn't about shortcuts. It's about guidance — a compass for the journey.

Here, you can learn to work with the unseen rules of reality instead of just getting swept up by them. You can become fluent, not only in ritual and practice, but in understanding why things happen the way they do. You'll begin to notice the hidden connections between cause and effect, and learn how to move through life with power, responsibility, and wisdom.

So welcome. This is The Quantum Templ System of Reality. Let's start the journey together.

THE SIGNAL AUDIT

---

BEFORE WE WRITE THE CODE: DEBUGGING THE SIGNAL

Think of this section as clearing corrupted files before you upload new ones.

The Gate I page asked: Why does doing the work feel like guessing? The answer is Signal Noise.

Most people try to program reality with a corrupted signal. They ask for a "new job," but their underlying broadcast is "I am terrified of poverty." The universe receives the terror, not the job application.

Before you write your first petition in the next chapter, we must isolate your True Want.

The 3-Step Signal Audit

1. Write down the Surface Want. (e.g., "I want my ex back," "I want a raise," "I want 10 new clients.")
2. Ask: "If I get this, what feeling will it give me?" Be honest. Is it safety? Validation? Revenge? Relief?
  - If I get my ex back, I won't feel alone. (True Want: Connection/Safety)
  - If I get a raise, I'll feel respected. (True Want: Respect/Worth)
3. Check for "Away-From" vs. "Towards" Energy.
  - Are you running away from pain (fear, loneliness, poverty)?
  - Or are you moving towards creation (growth, love, expansion)?

The Rule: You cannot build a new reality on a foundation of fear. Fear is a "scramble" signal.

Your Task: Rewrite your want so it is a "Towards" signal.

- Old: "I don't want to be broke anymore." (Signal: Broke)
- New: "I am building wealth and stability." (Signal: Wealth)

MIND MAP

---

CHAPTER I: INTENT

---

THERE'S A BASIC FORMULA THAT EVERYTHING FOLLOWS: INTENT, IMAGERY, TIMING, AND SPIRIT (OR ANCESTOR ENERGY).

In some rural traditions, Malhaar is seen as a divine energy that understands human experience. It helps by carrying your intent - projecting it into the universe and aligning it so the results come back to you in the right way. Right now, let's talk about intent.

So what is intent?

Intent is simply information that you're uploading into the universe. It's not energy, though people often confuse the two. Think of it this way: vibration is information, not energy. The universe only has two things in it -> energy and information.

Energy equals $mc^2$ .

Matter is energy, and energy is matter. But really, matter is just the informational scaffolding of energy on the canvas of space-time.

That's what Einstein was pointing at. When you use intent, you're not pushing energy -> you're giving the universe instructions. The universe is already overflowing with energy. You don't need to provide that. What you need to provide is the information, the blueprint for how that energy should take form.

This is where intent becomes practical instead of mystical.

Your intent can take many forms: an emotion, a picture in your mind, or even writing down what you want on paper. Writing is powerful because it brings your desire into physical reality. When you write a petition -> say, the name of a coworker who's been bullying you, along with what you want to happen (to sweeten the relationship, or for them to move out of your orbit) -> that written information becomes the key to making the work effective.

CHAPTER I

Traditionally, a petition is written with a blue ink pen, after lighting a diya prepared with a cotton wick and ghee (not oil). If a diya isn't available, you can light a white, unscented candle instead. Once the flame is lit, pay respect to Shiva — the Adiyogi, the first teacher who shared the knowledge of Yoga, Yantra, Tantra, Yagya; with the Saptarishis, guiding humanity toward higher consciousness. You do this by repeating “Om Namah Shivaya” 11 times.

Before we move forward, note this: the ritual is not the power — your clarity is.

This simple act centres your awareness, steadies emotion, and aligns your intent with universal order.

Note:

Before beginning this ritual, always take a bath to clear your field. More on clearing and securing your environment — physical and spiritual — appears in the Second Gate: Operational Protection: Daily Baths, Deep Clears, and Boundaries.

The best times are early morning (6 – 8 a.m.) or evening (5–7p.m.). For progressive or growth-oriented work, perform the ritual on the Full Moon. For releasing, or separation, work, perform it on the waxing crescent / New Moon.

LIGHTING DIYA | CANDLE

Lighting ghee lamps wasn't decoration. It was ion therapy. Fire releases anions that purify air, regulate serotonin, and reset the mind's chemistry.

Yes sometimes, people can program their reality just by focusing mentally, without writing. But that takes an advanced level of concentration. Writing a petition with this practice makes it easier and less stressful, and the universe still responds.

The important thing is that your intent has to be clear and focused. If, while doing your ritual, your mind is drifting to laundry, kids, or what's for dinner, you're not sending clear instructions. The universe is very literal. It doesn't understand “I don't want.” If your focus is on what you don't want, that's exactly what you'll attract more of.

CHAPTER I

This is why many people struggle -> they think they know what they want, but really they're chasing surface-level things like the new iPhone or the latest gadget. Underneath, what they actually want might be respect, validation, or love. Until you identify that true want, your intent isn't pure.

Another point: anger weakens intent. If you're raging and trying to curse someone, it won't be effective. That emotion confuses the signal. The only time strong emotion works in your favour is when it's passion -> love for your children, your family, or for life itself. The universe responds deeply to love. It does not respond well to hate or vengeance. Those are destructive forces that belong to human emotion, not the universe.

That said, the universe does respond to justice. If you've been wronged, it will move to correct that imbalance. Hate may cause ripples in someone's life – that's temporary; but justice carries real power.

Ancestors (Pitra) also play a role here. They understand human experience, so they may step in on matters of vengeance or protection. But their main purpose is to help you elevate in this life, not to act as mercenaries.

So, in a nutshell: intent is information. Be careful with what you're projecting into the universe. The more calm, clear, and focused you are, the more powerful your intent will be.

INTENT: THE INTERNAL SHIFT

Status Update:

The Signal is Live

Now that you have defined your Intent and cleared the fear from your signal, you have completed the most difficult part of the work.

What to expect in the next few weeks:

- Quiet Confidence: The panic of "I don't know what to do" should decrease.
- Decision Speed: You will find yourself saying "no" to things that don't match your new signal.
- Dreams: Your subconscious may begin processing this new data. Pay attention to your sleep.

You are no longer broadcasting noise. You are broadcasting code.

Now, let's build the interface (Imagery).

CHAPTER II: IMAGERY

---

THE TABOO AROUND MONEY: BREAKING THE SILENCE AND OVERCOMING SHAME

Imagery is the scenario itself: symbolic and literal, tactile and precise.

Now that you understand intent -> you're uploading information -> imagery is how you package that information so the universe understands the scenario you want. Imagery is the scenario itself: symbolic and literal, tactile and precise. You're creating a picture the universe can follow.

A simple way to see imagery is this: you are showing the universe the blueprint, not just asking for the outcome.

The Poppet:

The Gudda (what some call a poppet) is a perfect example. The Gudda is a physical scenario-builder. You take your petition, your intent, and you put that information into the poppet.

What you do to or with the poppet becomes the scenario you're asking the universe to emulate. If you want someone to stop gossiping about you, or to leave your life, the poppet is the symbolic container for that request.

Poppets often carry other fabrics of information -> cayenne or red chilies to push someone away, dirt from a prison or police station for bindings related to incarceration, or herbs and flowers for sweetening. Each ingredient is both symbol and data. Dirt is especially rich: a handful of earth stores the history of a place -> battles, plants, events -> and that record becomes part of the message you're sending.

CHAPTER 2

There's also a psychological layer: archetypes. Archetypes live in the subconscious and make certain images and geometries powerful. These geometries are known as Yantra.

Here's the part most people overlook: imagery programs your subconscious as much as it programs reality.

When you use imagery that matches an archetype, it helps your own mind, and the spirits or universal forces you work with, understand the request more clearly.

Take Shiva as an example. He is an archetype of dissolution and transformation: the breaker of old forms, the purifier, the one who clears space for new life. He holds paradox -> fierce and compassionate, detached and deeply present.

If your work is about clearing obstacles, ending a toxic pattern, or transforming a situation, aligning your imagery and petition with his qualities makes the intention more precise.

How that looks in practice: use symbols and sensory cues that carry Shiva's meaning -> the crescent moon, the third eye, ash or vibhuti, the trident (trishul), the small drum (damaru), rudraksha beads, or a simple mountain/river image (Shiva is the Himalayan yogi). Chanting Om Namah Shivaya (11x, 21x), before you begin can all tune your mind and the ritual to that archetype. Even small offerings associated with him -> bilva leaves, milk -> amplify the signal.

A few practical points:

- Match the archetype to the job. Use Shiva imagery for clearing, protection, or breaking patterns; choose other deities for sweetness, attraction, growth, or abundance.
- Keep your petition language aligned with the archetype (present tense, clear: e.g., "I am clearing this obstacle" rather than "I hope this obstacle will be gone").
- Respect and humility matter. These archetypes come from living traditions -> honour the forms, don't treat them like props.

CHAPTER 2

Quick example invocation (short, usable):

"Om Namah Shivay - 11x. Cleanse and dissolve what no longer serves me. Clear the path so I can stand free and act with right purpose."

Use that as a mental anchor while you write the petition, light the diya, and set your imagery.

Perform the ritual facing east, the direction of sunrise and initiation — it aligns your intent with expansion and clarity. The working naturally flows east-to-west, symbolizing the movement from conception to completion.

Whenever possible, include something that literally belongs to the target -> a hair, a fingernail, a scrap of cloth. That genetic or personal fragment acts like a GPS: names are messy and repeat; DNA is unique. Putting a piece of them into the poppet narrows the target cleanly to that one person.

Do this work in a state of calm. Anger muddies the signal. The universe best responds to clear scenarios, and ancestors prefer justice and restoration over blind vengeance.

So, create the image you want to see -> clear, specific, and calm -> and the rest will align.

In the next section we'll talk about timing -> when to do these workings so the current of events helps, not hinders, your imagery.

System Scenario: The Relationship Reset

Context: You are attracting partners who are emotionally unavailable.

The Intent: "I attract a partner who is present, safe, and ready to build."

The Imagery (Poppet): You create a doll representing The Ideal Partner. You fill it with herbs for sweetness (raw sugar/a few drops of honey) and stability (oak wood). You wrap it in blue thread (communication) rather than red (passion/lust), signaling you want stability over chaos.

The Result: You stop broadcasting "desperation" and start broadcasting "readiness." The universe matches the pattern of the doll, not the pattern of your past.

CHAPTER III: TIMING

---

TIMING IS ABOUT WORKING WITH A CURRENT.

Timing can feel complicated, but it's really about working with a current — sometimes you're going with the tide, sometimes you're pushing against it. There are moments where a working will meet almost no resistance, and other moments where you'll be fighting the current and get very little back. Learning those rhythms makes your work a lot easier.

Think of timing as choosing the right current instead of rowing harder.

REM sleep

A practical example: if you're trying to influence someone's dreams, don't do that work in the middle of the day or right before you go to the office. You want to do it when your target is likely in their deepest sleep — REM sleep. You can estimate that by their routine. If someone gets up at five in the morning to get to work, their deepest sleep is probably around midnight to 1 a.m.

Do your work in that window if dream-influence is your aim. (Again: I'll say more about ethics below - be careful how you use this.)

Another big point about timing is how you phrase things. The universe operates in the present tense — for magical language, there is no past or future, only now. So, write and speak your petitions in the present tense. Don't say, "I hope this person will stop" or "They did this to me." Say what is true in the present: "This person is leaving my orbit," or "I am free of that pattern." The phrase "I am" is itself a form of conjuring; whatever follows "I am" is a present request for manifestation.

This is where language becomes a programming tool, not just expression.

When you wake up and say, "I am grateful," you are putting that state into motion — even if you don't fully feel it yet. Likewise, "I am tired," "I am lonely," or "I am stuck" send that signal out as well. Use the "I am" deliberately.

Lunar cycles matter.

If you want to build or attract, work with the waxing moon - it's a natural time for growth and increase. If you want to bind, banish, or remove something painful - work in the waning moon after the full moon.

These timing practices are time-tested: when you match your working to the moon's phase, you're using the current rather than pushing against it. If you try to strengthen something during the wrong cycle, you'll get smaller results and have to put in far more effort.

There are also personal windows of increased receptivity. People go through highs and lows - sleep cycles, emotional cycles, and biological cycles - that make them more or less open to influence. For example, a person's deepest sleep is a more receptive state; some phases of the menstrual cycle can mean larger emotional swings and a different kind of receptivity.

That is not an invitation to exploit vulnerability. Use this knowledge responsibly: heal, protect, or restore balance rather than prey on weakness.

A clear ethical note: timing taught here is for responsible practice — for protection, healing, justice, and self-growth. Do not use timing to manipulate, harm, or coerce another person for selfish ends. Work that violates consent or exploits vulnerability is dangerous, karmically and practically. If you're unsure, err on the side of restraint and focus on workings that benefit you or that you perform with consent.

CHAPTER III

In short: timing is about flow. Learn the rhythms — sleep windows, moon phases, the present-tense of your phrasing — and work in moments that support what you want. When your intent, imagery, and timing line up, the work moves with much less friction.

System Scenario: The Career Pivot

Context: You need a new job but feel invisible in interviews.

The Intent: "I am seen, valued, and hired by a company that aligns with my purpose."

The Timing: You schedule your petition work for the Waxing Moon (growth/attraction). You perform the ritual on a Thursday (ruled by Jupiter, the planet of expansion and wealth).

The Action: You send your applications immediately after the ritual, while your internal state is aligned with the "I am hired" frequency.

CHAPTER IV: ANCESTRY

---

IT'S IMPORTANT TO REMEMBER YOUR ANCESTORS IN ALL OF YOUR WORKINGS.

Pitra

By “pitra” I don’t just mean grandpa or aunt — I mean those who came before you in any sense. Those souls can take on the job of watching out for you from the other side.

Your ancestors are your protecting guides. A lot of the time, what you petition for is carried by them — they act as messengers to the universe, and sometimes they actually move on your behalf. If you’re seeking justice, opportunity, or protection, they will help you accomplish the goals that are part of your life’s mission.

In practice, this means you’re never doing this work alone — even when it feels solitary.

They’re quietly working behind the scenes more than you might realise. Because of that, it’s important to honour them.

When your actions are not in your best interest, your ancestors may step in to block mistakes that could jeopardise your purpose here. Showing appreciation for them isn’t only for formal rituals -> simple daily recognition matters too.

Later in the other pillars, we’ll go deeper into how to communicate with your ancestors and how to give them extra strength to help you. You’d be surprised how much gravity your work gains when you acknowledge the effort being made on your behalf.

Remember: these are people who once lived and felt like we do. They’re not on this plane, but they still have feelings. Recognition -> a quiet thanks, an offering, a short prayer -> is joyful for them and helpful for you.

CHAPTER 4

So keep in mind that what we do in these workings is communing with the universe; your ancestors are a central part of that. Treat them with respect, acknowledge them, and let them work with you.

APPENDIX: TROUBLESHOOTING

---

WHEN "NOTHING SEEMS TO BE WORKING"

If you have done the work and feel stalled, do not spiral into doubt. Treat it like a system error. Run this diagnostic checklist:

1. Check the Signal (Intent)

Did you broadcast a "Towards" signal or an "Away-From" signal?

- Diagnostic: If you were feeling desperate, terrified, or angry during the ritual, you broadcasted emotion, not intent.
- Fix: Wait for the next relevant moon phase. Recalibrate your state. Do it again from a place of calm authority.

2. Check the Connection (Action)

Did you close the circuit?

- Diagnostic: You did the ritual for a new job, but you haven't sent out any resumes or worked on improving your skills; because you're "waiting for a sign."
- Fix: Magic steers the ship, but you must turn the engine on. Take three concrete actions toward your goal tomorrow.

3. Check the Timing

Did you swim upstream?

- Diagnostic: You tried to start a new relationship during a Waning Moon (a time of decrease/release) or while you were exhausted.
- Fix: Check the timing mechanics again. Align your next attempt with a Waxing Moon or a Thursday (Jupiter/Growth).

“I FELT SOMETHING SHIFT, BUT NOTHING CONCRETE HAPPENED YET”

The Invisible Work is Still Work

This is one of the most common experiences — and one that most people misinterpret as "failure."

Here's what's actually happening:

The ritual doesn't always deliver results in a straight line. Sometimes it works in layers.

You might feel:

- Mental clarity where there was fog
- Emotional calm where there was panic
- A subtle knowing that something is shifting, even if you can't name it yet
- Better sleep (your nervous system is no longer in scramble mode)
- Fewer obsessive thoughts about the thing you petitioned for
- A quiet confidence that didn't exist before

These are real results, even though they're not concrete yet.

Why This Matters

The invisible shift often precedes the visible one by days, weeks, or even months. Think of it like debugging code: First, you fix the error in the system. Then, the output changes. But there's a lag between the fix and the visible result.

When you do a working:

- Week 1–2: Your signal clears (invisible)
- Week 2–6: Your energy and choices shift (you notice it)
- Week 6–12: Opportunities aligned with your new signal start appearing (visible)
- Week 12+: Results compound and become undeniable

TROUBLESHOOTING

If you're in Week 1–2, you're not failing. You're building.

What To Do

Don't assume the work didn't land. Instead, track the invisible shifts:

- How is your sleep?
- Are you less anxious about the thing you petitioned for?
- Have you noticed a shift in what you're drawn to or repelled by?
- Do you have more clarity on what you actually want?
- Are you making different choices automatically (without forcing them)?

Record these. Write them down. They're proof the work is moving.

The Real Pattern Most People Miss

People often get the internal shift (calm, clarity, new perspective) and dismiss it because they're waiting for external results (job offer, relationship change, money).

But the internal shift is the order you're placing with the universe. The external results are the delivery.

If you've received the internal shift, the delivery is coming. You just have to keep the channel open and take aligned action.

"MY RITUAL DIDN'T WORK FOR A SPECIFIC PERSON I TARGETED"

When Your Intent for Someone Else Doesn't Land

This is a critical moment. It requires honesty and ethical realignment.

First, let's be clear: Sometimes a ritual "doesn't work" because it shouldn't.

The universe doesn't always honour our petitions for other people — especially when those petitions are rooted in trying to change them, control them, or make them do something against their nature.

The Three Reasons a "Person-Targeted" Working Might Not Land

1. The Petition is Actually About Control, Not Justice or Healing

You wanted your ex to come back. You wanted your boss to respect you. You wanted your family member to stop their behaviour.

But here's the question: Did you petition for them to be free of their pattern? Or did you petition for them to meet your needs?

Diagnostic:

If your petition had language like "so they will..." or "so they realize...", you were trying to control their choice, not invite their healing.

The universe doesn't move on behalf of control. It moves on behalf of justice, healing, and growth — for everyone involved, not just you.

Fix:

Reframe the working. Instead of "Make them respect me," petition for:

"I am surrounded by people who naturally respect me and my boundaries. Those who can't, gracefully exit my life."

TROUBLESHOOTING

This takes the burden off changing them and puts the power back on you — attracting people and situations that already match your worth.

2. You're Working Against Their Will or Higher Purpose

Sometimes, the person you're petitioning for is meant to move in a different direction than what you want.

Their higher purpose might not include being your partner, working under your leadership, or staying in your life the way you imagined.

This isn't a failure of the system. This is the system working correctly — protecting them and honouring their path, even if it's not the path you wanted.

Diagnostic:

Ask yourself honestly — is this person actually aligned with my growth? Or am I trying to make something work that doesn't?

If your intuition says "this isn't right," trust that. The universe might be saying "no" on their behalf.

Fix:

Let them go. Do a releasing working instead. The paradox: Sometimes letting someone go opens them to what they actually need. And it opens you to what's actually aligned for you.

3. You Have Unresolved Patterns That Keep You Attracted to This Person

This is the most common one.

You keep petitioning for the same person to change or come back because something in you needs healing first.

Maybe they mirror a parent. Maybe they represent something you're chasing to feel worthy. Maybe the rejection itself is what keeps you hooked.

TROUBLESHOOTING

Diagnostic:

How many times have you done this working? If it's more than twice, the issue isn't the ritual — it's the wound underneath the desire.

Fix:

Step back. Do a Gate II working for yourself (protection, boundary clearing). Then do a Gate I working for your healing, not their change.

Once you're healed, you'll either:

- Stop wanting them (because the wound no longer needs feeding)
- Or attract a version of them that's actually aligned with you

When You Should Abandon a Working for Someone Else

Stop trying to change someone if:

- You've done the same working more than twice without results
- Your intuition keeps saying "this isn't right"
- The person has explicitly told you they don't want what you're offering
- You're feeling desperate or obsessive about the outcome
- Your petition violates their stated wishes or boundaries

In any of these cases, you're not failing. You're respecting a boundary the universe is drawing.

The Alternative: Work on Yourself Instead

Here's the secret: Almost every person-targeted working can be reframed as a self-working.

Instead of: "Make them respect me"

Work on: "I attract people who respect me naturally."

Instead of: "Make them love me"

Work on: "I am whole and worthy. I attract love from people ready to give it."

Instead of: "Make them change"

Work on: "I am surrounded by people aligned with my values. Those who aren't, gracefully exit."

TROUBLESHOOTING

When you shift the working from "fix them" to "call in what's aligned with me," the results change dramatically.

Because now you're not trying to control reality. You're broadcasting a signal for what already exists to find you.

The universe responds much faster when you're not fighting someone else's will.

"I'M HAVING UNEXPECTED SIDE EFFECTS (DREAMS, COINCIDENCES, RESISTANCE)"

What's Actually Happening

When you start running clear code through a system that's been running buggy code, there's a clearing period.

Think of it like defragging a computer. Files get reorganized. Temporary junk surfaces. The system needs to restart. For a moment, it looks worse before it looks better.

Same thing happens with consciousness.

The Dreams

What you might experience:

Vivid, unusual, or intense dreams. Sometimes nightmares. Sometimes profound spiritual experiences.

Why this happens:

Your subconscious is processing the new signal you've uploaded. It's clearing old patterns, old wounds, old programs. The ritual didn't create these dreams — it unlocked the clearing that was needed.

TROUBLESHOOTING

What to do:

- Keep a dream journal. Write them down immediately upon waking.
- Look for patterns — what keeps showing up?
- Don't panic. Dreams are your system's way of working through the old code.
- If the dreams persist beyond 2–3 weeks, you may need a deeper clearing (Gate II work).

Some dreams are prophetic — showing you what's coming. Some are just processing. Over time, you'll learn the difference.

Note: If the dreams become genuinely distressing or you're losing sleep, this is a sign you need to slow down. Do one ritual per lunar cycle instead of multiple. Rest matters.

The Coincidences

What you might experience:

Unexpected synchronicities. The person you were thinking about texts you. You hear the exact song that matches your petition. You run into someone who offers exactly what you petitioned for. Numbers repeating. Symbols showing up.

Why this happens:

You're becoming more receptive. Your signal is clearer, so you're picking up on the connections and opportunities that were always there but you couldn't see before. You're also noticing more because your nervous system isn't in panic mode.

What to do:

- Pay attention. These aren't random.
- Follow the thread. If someone mentions an opportunity, explore it.
- Record them. You'll start to see the breadcrumbs leading toward your petition.
- Don't dismiss them as "just coincidence." The line between coincidence and causation blurs when your signal is clear.

This is the feedback loop working. Keep going.

The Resistance

What you might experience:

After doing a ritual, things might get temporarily worse before they get better.

- A conversation you needed to have blows up
- Someone who's been enabling you suddenly pushes back
- Old patterns flare up a few more times before dying
- You feel more emotional or sensitive than usual
- People around you act differently (sometimes withdrawn, sometimes more intense)

Why this happens:

You've changed your broadcast. People and situations that were aligned with your old signal are now out of alignment. The system is clearing them so new things can come in.

This is called the "clearing" or "transition" phase. It's uncomfortable, but it's necessary.

What NOT to do:

- Don't assume the ritual "backfired"
- Don't panic and reverse the working
- Don't go back to your old patterns to make the discomfort stop

What TO do:

- Hold your ground. Your new signal is correct.
- Use Gate II practices (baths, boundaries, clearing) to support yourself through the transition
- Remember: resistance is not failure. It's the system working.
- Set firmer boundaries with people who are triggering the resistance
- Take extra care of your nervous system (sleep, movement, time in nature)

Timeline:

This usually lasts 2–4 weeks. After that, the resistance softens and you're in clearer water.

How to Know If It's Clearing Resistance vs. A Sign to Stop

This is clearing/transition (keep going):

- Temporary discomfort that decreases week by week
- Old patterns or people creating friction
- You feel emotionally activated but not in danger
- Your intuition says "this is necessary"
- The internal shift is still happening (clarity, calm, knowing)

This is a sign to slow down or stop (pause and reassess):

- Genuine safety concerns (physical, financial, psychological)
- Loss of sleep that's affecting your functioning
- Panic or dissociation (not normal emotional activation)
- Your intuition screams "STOP"
- No internal shift at all — only external chaos

If you're in the second category, pause the working. Do Gate II clearing work to stabilize. Then, when you're grounded, move forward more slowly.

What NOT to Interpret as a Problem

You might worry about these — but they're normal:

- Restlessness: Your old comfort patterns don't fit anymore. This is good.
- Sadness: You're grieving what you're releasing. This is necessary.
- Anger: You're recognizing patterns you accepted for too long. This is clarity.
- Uncertainty: You're between the old signal and the new one. This is temporary.
- More vivid emotions in general: Your sensitivity is increasing, not breaking.

All of these are signs the work is landing, not signs it's failing.

The Pattern Recognition Checklist

After 6 weeks of ritual work, ask yourself:

- ☐ Is my sleep better or the same? (Not worse)
- ☐ Am I less anxious about the thing I petitioned for?
- ☐ Have I noticed at least one small coincidence or synchronicity?
- ☐ Have I taken at least 3 actions aligned with my petition?
- ☐ Is my internal state clearer, even if external results haven't landed?
- ☐ Have old patterns that used to trap me started to lose their grip?

TROUBLESHOOTING

If you check 2+ boxes: The work is working. Keep going.

If you check fewer than 2: Run the three primary diagnostics (Signal, Connection, Timing). There's a leak.

ADVANCED PROTOCOL: WHEN TO CALL A PROFESSIONAL

---

THE QUANTUM TEMPL SYSTEM IS DESIGNED TO MAKE YOU THE ARCHITECT OF YOUR OWN REALITY. YOU HAVE EVERYTHING YOU NEED IN GATE I TO HANDLE 90% OF LIFE'S PIVOTS.

However, there are moments — times of extreme crisis, grief, or complex entanglement — where your own signal is too shaky to hold the line. In those rare cases, it is wisdom, not weakness, to ask for support.

Here, I want to touch on the idea of outsourcing -> using a Sadhu or a Pujari to do something for you.

There are a few authentic people out there, very good at what they do, who take real pride in their effectiveness and honesty. Their integrity is everything. But on the other hand, there are also plenty of people -> usually the more famous ones -> who lack that integrity. For them, it's just a money-making scheme. They may know the rituals, they may call themselves Pujari, but they don't want to do the real work. They just want the money.

To be honest, there's no shame in contacting them. I've been doing this sort of thing for many years, and there are times when I've gone to my Hindu saints or someone I trust to do the work for me. Especially when I've been under high stress or in distress -> too scattered or paralysed by the situation to do anything effectively myself.

Sometimes you need someone else's assistance, and in my mind it's no different from going to court and hiring a lawyer to speak on your behalf.

The key is to make sure you find someone effective and ethical.

Watch out for red flags:

- If they ask for a huge amount of money, they're not real
- If they guarantee a specific outcome in a specific timeframe
- If they demand secrecy or isolation from your support system
- If they ever demand sex as part of a ritual (that is never required — ever)

If someone tries to take advantage of you in that way, when you're at your weakest, that person is a predator. I'm not saying this to scare you, but you do need to use common sense when choosing who to trust.

Green flags for authentic practitioners:

- They ask questions before offering solutions
- They're transparent about what they can and can't do
- They encourage you to keep working on yourself, not just rely on them
- They price reasonably (not exorbitant)
- They have verifiable references or community standing
- They respect your autonomy and spiritual beliefs

Once you find the right one, hold on to them. That person will not only do everything they can for you, but if they can't, they'll connect you with someone who can. They usually have their finger on the pulse of the whole community.

Make sure they have the highest integrity, because they're dealing with your life. Work only with someone who has your best interest in mind, not money or control.

You'd be surprised how many people fall for scams because they're desperate and willing to do anything to get out of their situation. And those who exploit that desperation — well, I have very strong words for them, but I'll leave it at that.

TAKE ACTION

---

OKAY -> YOU'VE DONE THE WORK. YOU RESEARCHED, YOU CAST, YOU DID THE FIRST PILLAR.

The diyas burned, the petition is finished, the remains are properly dealt with. That part matters. But it's not the end.

When your working is complete, bury the poppet in the earth. Returning the poppet and the physical remains to the soil closes the circuit - it anchors the work into the world and lets the land carry the petition forward. Dig a small hole, place the poppet and any biodegradable remains inside, cover it, and give a quiet word of closure. (Do this respectfully - only bury on land where you have permission, and avoid public parks, sacred sites, or places where burying is prohibited.)

Magic creates opportunity and opens doors. It rarely hands you the whole thing on a silver platter. If you're working for a job, the ritual can shift the field in your favour -> but you still have to look for the job, apply, show up to interviews, and follow up. If you want sales, this system might bring better leads or timing, but you still have to pick up the phone, send the emails, and close the deal.

Here's where most practitioners fail: they cast, but they don't follow the thread.

Too many people stop after the ritual. They wait. They sit around hoping. That's not how this works. This system points the compass; you still have to walk.

Action is the final (and most important) step.

ADVANCED PROTOCOL

Practical checklist after a working:

- Treat the results as leads, not guarantees. Follow up.
- Do the mundane tasks: apply, call, meet, list, submit.
- Bury the poppet and biodegradable remains in the earth to close the working (only on permitted private land).
- Keep an eye out for opportunities the ritual may create and act fast.
- Record small wins and clues -> they show the work is moving and help you adjust.

Remember: this isn't about winning a lottery ticket. It's about shifting odds and making life easier where you can act. The ritual makes the path clearer; you still have to walk it.

So take action -> that's the whole point.

Tracking:

Keep a simple journal: date of ritual, intent, actions taken, and results.

This feedback loop teaches you how you specifically respond to this system, and refines your practice over time.

CASE STUDY

---

FROM VISA UNCERTAINTY TO SIX-FIGURE WORK

Before we move into the Feedback Loop, I want to show you how these mechanics operate in a real situation — not as theory, but as a lived sequence of intent, imagery, timing, and ancestry working together.

In 2022, I arrived in Australia as an international student with no local network, an education loan, and a temporary visa. By 2024, the market I was stepping into had tightened severely due to the rise of AI and automation. Opportunities for international graduates dropped sharply. Most companies were prioritising citizens and permanent residents. On paper, the odds didn't lean in my favour.

Instead of treating this as “just hustle harder” territory, I treated it as a Gate I opportunity. I wrote a clear petition for the outcome I wanted:

“I am hired into a role that values my skills, pays me fairly, and gives me a stable base in Australia.”

I aligned my imagery (how I saw myself in that role), worked with timing (lunar windows + action windows), and paired it with an advanced & ancient sunrise ritual: Surya Vandana — where early sunlight acts as a carrier and amplifier of intent.

Surya Vandana is not a beginner technique; it's an advanced protocol that rests on all eight gates of this system. Gate I gave me the base: signal clarity.

Within 12 weeks:

- I cleared one of the most competitive consulting interviews in Australia.
- I received a six-figure offer (AUD $143,599).

ADVANCED PROTOCOL

Four months later, using the same mechanics, I transitioned again into a significantly stronger role as an AI Engineer — with a notable pay increase and long-term stability.

I can't promise your life will follow this exact timeline. But I can say this with confidence:

When your signal is coherent, your action is aligned, and your timing is intelligent, the field has far fewer reasons to say “no.”

This system doesn't replace effort — it aims it.

ADVANCED NOTE: SURYA VANDANA (BEYOND GATE I)

---

SURYA VANDANA IS A SUNRISE PRACTICE WHERE YOUR CLARIFIED INTENT RIDES THE EARLY MORNING LIGHT AS A CARRIER SIGNAL.

It integrates all eight gates of The Quantum Templ System into a single working — intent, imagery, timing, ancestry, purity, talismans, wealth current, and restoration.

You don't need this protocol to start.

Gate I alone is enough to create real movement.

Think of Surya Vandana as an amplifier you layer on once your foundations — intent, imagery, timing, and ancestry — are stable.

Now that you've seen how the mechanics operate in real life, the next step is learning how to track your outcomes, refine your signal, and understand how your system responds over time.

That is the purpose of the Feedback Loop.

THE FEEDBACK LOOP

---

You prepared yourself with the cleansing bath, lit the ghee diya, opened with the mantra (11×), spoke your desire with a steady mind, and wrote your petition — growth, love, expansion — in blue ink on white paper. You placed it inside the poppet with the elements that broadcast your intention clearly and directly. You sealed the poppet, aligned the work with the correct lunar cycle, and carried out the ritual with precision.

When the work was complete, you returned the remains to the earth — grounding your intention into the living network that brings things into form.

Now you continue. Not once, but rhythmically. In harmony with the lunar cycles that govern expansion and manifestation.

With each cycle, the path opens further. With each action, the results move closer. What you aligned in spirit, you now pursue in the world — and reality adjusts to meet you.

In practice, these shifts are subtle at first, then unmistakable.

What to watch for (Weeks 4-8):

- Coincidences: Small opportunities that seem "lucky."
- Resistance: Sometimes, old patterns flare up a few times before dying. Do not panic. This is the system clearing the cache.
- Alignment: You will stop attracting things that match your confusion.

If you see movement — even small movement — the system is working. Keep walking through the doors that open.

SYSTEM STATUS: GATE I ACTIVE

---

You Have the Code.

You have moved from the passive acceptance of "whatever happens" to the active stance of Reality Programming.

You know that Intent is data.

You know that Imagery is the interface.

You know that Timing is synchronization.

You know that Ancestry is your network.

This is a complete system. You can use Gate I for the rest of your life to shift careers, navigate relationships, and clear obstacles. Practice this. Master it. Test the feedback loops.

The Next Logical Step: Operational Maintenance

Now that you are broadcasting a clear signal, you become more visible — to opportunities, yes, but also to the noise of the world.

A high-performance computer needs a firewall.

A high-performance life needs protection.

When you are ready to secure the life you are building, Gate II: Operational Protection: Daily Baths, Deep Clears, and Boundaries will teach you how to hold your ground, clear energetic debris, and stop leaks in your field.

Until then: Broadcast clearly.

THE TEMPLE WHEEL

---

CONTD..

---

JOIN THE PRIVATE CIRCLE (FACEBOOK)

---

Ready to connect with other practitioners?

Join The Quantum Templ™ System Community on Facebook for:

- Exclusive announcements about new gates
- Live workshops and Q&A sessions (coming soon)
- Updates and special offers for community members
- Connection with others on the same journey

[\[Join the Facebook Group\]](#)

